

Corporate Biography

James L. “J.J.” Johnson, Jr.

J.J. Johnson is executive vice president, Public Affairs and Policy, for Fidelity Investments, one of the world’s largest providers of financial services. In his current role, Mr. Johnson supports Fidelity’s long-term business and strategic agenda by overseeing a number of key external and internal functions, including Government Relations and Public Policy, Media and Public Affairs, and Community Relations. His responsibilities include development and advocacy of Fidelity’s policies and positions on topics important to the firm and its clients, and creation and implementation of programs promoting Fidelity’s community engagement. He joined Fidelity in September 2008.

Prior to joining Fidelity, Mr. Johnson was senior vice president, Government Relations and Human Resources for the NASDAQ Stock Market beginning in 2003, where he advocated public policy positions to advance the market’s business objectives and led NASDAQ’s global human resources team. From 1998 to 2003, Mr. Johnson was vice president, Congressional Affairs and director of Federal Legislative Strategy for AT&T. Mr. Johnson previously served as an associate in the public law and policy section of the Washington, DC law firm of Akin, Gump, Strauss, Hauer & Feld, LLP from 1991 to 1998 and deputy director of Congressional Affairs for the Dole for President 1996 campaign.

Mr. Johnson received his bachelor of arts in public policy studies from Duke University and his juris doctor from Georgetown University Law Center. He is a member of the Maryland and District of Columbia Bars and currently serves on the boards of Reading is Fundamental and the New England Council.

599888.4.1

For more information call Fidelity Corporate Communications at 617-563-5800.